Symposium on African American Male Achievement

CRESPAR/HOWARD UNIVERSITY, in partnership with the National Institute on the Education of At-Risk Students presented a “Symposium on African American Male Achievement” at Howard University on December 4 of last year.

The symposium sought to enhance dialogue on improving educational outcomes for African American males among government officials, researchers, foundations, and the policy community. More than 150 people were in attendance.